

Creative Director: Selah Pabon

Designer/ Developer: Echo Dong

Meeting was had in person

Meeting Notes:

- Website is meant to capture the overall aesthetic of the books written by Olivie Blake, and highlight her success as an author and overall public figure
- Fairly simple site that would have a multiple-page structure
 - o Home Page/Introduction – Introduce Olivie Blake as an author and her impact/ influence on the literary community
 - o Personal life + the backstory behind her pen name – where she went to university/ educational background, where she is from and her current status
 - o Career – would highlight the evolution of her career from her first book published to now. There can be a section about the awards she's been nominated for and/or won
 - o Works – a page to honor and highlight all of her works published across the years
 - o Extras (optional?) – maybe there could be a page that includes a few of her blog posts and additional works that are featured on her website, as well as reviews/praise from other popular authors within the genre
- Two different design directions:
 - o Option 1: Modern Alchemy A clean, minimal layout with metallic accents, serif typefaces, and deep colors like black, gold, and muted gray. Motion effects can be subtle, like slow fades or small animations inspired by ink or constellations.
 - o Option 2: Dark Academia A textured look with parchment tones, soft shadows, and classical typography. Use warm, aged colors such as cream, burgundy, and deep brown. Small illustrations inspired by manuscripts or alchemical diagrams could add personality.
 - o Either or a mix of both could work, ultimately up to the designer
 - o Recommended fonts by the CD:
 - Noka for titles
 - Kefa for body type
